

2018 Photography Workshop - Look Closely

Mt Gravatt Environment Group
Sunday 27 May

Discover tools to see nature up close to tell your story.

Macro photography is about concentrating on small details. You, the photographer, control subject selection, isolation, lighting, perspective and camera controls to create a spectacular visual narrative.

We will start by running through some camera basics (controls, modes, settings) before exploring how to use camera settings to isolate close-up subjects and get the most from lighting and angles.

Macro photograph of Dodder Laurel flowers, same subject with high-key and low-key lighting.

Then we put it into practice exploring Mt Gravatt Conservation Reserve to find your story to share with the group.

Bring your camera: either basic point and shoot OR digital SLR - the key ingredient is you.

Bring a tripod if possible and a small torch for lighting subjects. Wear enclosed shoes and clothing suitable for walking in the bush.
